

Founding Principles

to be read before discussion begins, followed by meeting guidelines

We accept anyone who comes with sincerity and kindness of heart. We do this because we are so often rejected.

We respect the identity of everyone. We do this because our identities are so often disregarded.

We protect the confidentiality of those who come here. We do this because our confidences are so often violated.

Above all, we do our utmost to provide an emotionally and physically safe space for those who come together with us. We do this because the world is so often not safe for us.
